In a world grappling with the evergrowing demand for energy, the need for sustainable and renewable sources has never been more crucial.

This speech, titled "Empowering Tomorrow: The Solar Revolution", delves into the global landscape of energy consumption, focusing on the rise of solar energy as a beacon of hope for a sustainable future.

Vivek Sridhar, a Clean Technology entrepreneur with a Stanford University background, led the Solar initiative at BGR Energy Systems before becoming CEO of Shiroi Energy. Under his leadership, Shiroi Energy has completed over 20 MW of rooftop installations and is venturing into ground mount plants, showcasing Vivek's commitment to sustainable energy practices and driving change in the renewable energy sector.
